

Low-Cost Remedies Are Made In War On Crippling Arthritis

DR. EPHRAIM ENGLEMAN, Medical Director, National Foundation for Arthritis, Rheumatism, Gout, Osteoporosis, and Osteoarthritis, said today that the nation today has more than 10 million Americans who are suffering from crippling arthritis, simply because they have found no alternative but to accept it. Millions of dollars are spent each year on quack remedies and spurious cures, but the search for some means of improving their condition is much more than a mere stiffness of the joints that accompanies the aging process. It is a whole complex of diseases and conditions whose causes are largely unknown and for which medical science has yet to find a cure. Because of rheumatic diseases, 300,000 persons in this country are totally unable to do any productive work. The condition hits children, too, often with painful intensity that even the weight of a bed sheet is unbearable.

Preventive Unknown
In the face of this huge problem, there is a general lack of knowledge on how best to care for the arthritic. With no way to prevent the condition, physicians have great need for more and better resources for dealing with the arthritis problem. New tools and new methods must be developed through research, and the new knowledge thus obtained must be quickly disseminated to physicians for immediate translation into terms of high quality treatment for their patients. To meet the critical need resulting from a medical problem of such overwhelming proportions, The National Foundation-March of Dimes has turned the full force of its dynamic organization to meet the challenge of crippling arthritis. By directing an organized attack on the three major fronts of research, patient aid and professional education, it is confident that arthritis, birth defects and other crippling diseases can be fought with the same success that marked its historic fight against polio. Here at the University of California Medical Center a whole new concept for dealing with chronic disease is being formulated. Supported with funds raised through the March of Dimes, an Arthritis Clinical Study Center is in full operation, one of a growing number of such centers being established across the country with National Foundation grants.

Under the ideal conditions afforded by a full-scale university medical center, with its splendid research facilities, an ever-increasing number of patients and a large group of medical students who will carry the experience and knowledge acquired here to all parts of the nation, the Arthritis Center is constantly stepping up the pace in the new assault upon rheumatic diseases. Under the direction of staff members who are experts in their fields, and with the close cooperation of specialized departments in biochemistry, orthopedics, physical medicine, pediatrics, radiology, ophthalmology and social service, a total team approach to the complex problems of the arthritic patient has been introduced.

Work Pays Dividends

Our work already has begun to pay dividends. Improvements in care have been effected. The range and amount of service have been increased. The ever-widening circle of knowledge is reaching more and more professional workers in medicine, thus affecting the lives of a constantly-growing number of people who need help. The mammoth task of fighting arthritis as a total problem has just begun. But the vigor and scope of The National Foundation's newest effort should bring renewed hope to the 11,000,000 victims of rheumatic diseases who have waited too long for the advances of medical science to reach their doorstep.

MRS. SCALAS ELECTED SECRETARY HANCOCK HOME DEM. COUNCIL
Mrs. M. O. Scalas was elected secretary of the Hancock County Home Demonstration Council at a meeting last Friday in the Agriculture Center. Mrs. Jeanne Williams was named treasurer. Mrs. Scalas gave the devotional, and Mrs. Edward LeVasseur led the pledge of allegiance to the flag. Mrs. J. E. Ferguson, president, presided over the business session. A report on the State Council meeting was given by Mrs. LeVasseur, and a film of the 1961 state meeting, furnished by the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company, was shown by Charles Carter, Jr., of the Coast Electric Power Association. The Clermont Harbor Home Demonstration Club hosted the social hour.

VCO CELEBRATED 16TH ANNIVERSARY TUESDAY AT 100-MEN'S HALL
The Veterans Civic Organization celebrated its 16th anniversary last week with a program held at the 100-Men's Hall. S. Price, principal of Valena C. Jones School, was guest speaker. The hall and tables, which formed a V, were decorated in red, white and blue. Jesse Lewis Sr., who served as president for 11 consecutive years, was presented with a gift. Approximately 100 guests enjoyed the delicious menu.

STATE 4-H CLUB CONGRESS AT MISSISSIPPI STATE JULY 10-13
State College, Miss. — Miss. State's largest 4-H Club event of the year, State 4-H Club Congress, will be held July 10-13 at Mississippi State University. About 1,100 boys and girls from throughout the state will attend. Most of them are county and district winners who compete for state judging and demonstration honors in more than 30 different agricultural and home economics subjects, said C. I. Smith, state 4-H Club leader of the Agricultural Extension Service. The judging contests, some for individuals and others for county teams of four, will be held Wednesday. Demonstrations by both teams of two and individuals will mostly be judged Thursday. General assembly programs will include state public speaking finals, the annual 4-H dress revue, recognition of achievement, address and other inspirational activities. A feature of the event this year will be special recognition of the press, radio and television for service to 4-H Club work. Representatives of these media have been invited to the closing general assembly Friday. Meeting here during the Congress will be the 4-H Adult Leaders Council, of which R. W. McDaniel of Hinds County is president; State 4-H Advisory Council, headed by Dr. D. B. Roark of Yazoo City, and the Mississippi 4-H Foundation, Inc., Les M. Taylor of Jackson, president. Meetings will also be held of the 4-H All Stars and of junior organizations in dairy, livestock, agronomy and horticulture. Dr. D. W. Colvard, president of Mississippi State University, will welcome the 4-Hers and their leaders Tuesday night. At the Friday assembly, the donors of awards that representatives of the mass media will be recognized by Dr. W. L. Gilles, vice president for agriculture and forestry of Mississippi State University. W. M. Bost, director of the Extension Service, will recognize the adult leaders. Miss Earle Gaddis, state home demonstration agent, will recognize State 4-H Advisory Council members. Mr. Smith will lead the recognition of 4-H members. Theme of the Congress is "Learn, Live and Serve Through 4-H." Money without freedom isn't worth very much for very long. That's why every American family should invest in freedom with U. S. Savings Bonds.

AMERICAN LEGION AND AUXILIARY SUPPORT FREEDOM BOND DRIVE
Both the Mississippi American Legion and the Legion Auxiliary are urging their membership to support the current Freedom Bond Drive now underway in the state. Members were urged to purchase U. S. Savings Bonds and recommend them to others. A group of Americans has a stake in democracy than the Legion members," Thomas J. Keane, department commander said in a letter to post commanders. "That's why the Legion is so active in its desire to safeguard the liberties so dear to American hearts. The American Legion is afforded a most excellent way to demonstrate its dedication to our free way of life and devotion to our country by active ly taking part in the Freedom Bond Drive." Legion post commanders were urged to contact their county savings bonds chairman and offer their assistance, in addition to purchasing bonds individually. Mrs. Henry H. Tew, auxiliary president, declared that members of the auxiliary can put something of "yourself into the fight for Freedom" with U. S. Savings Bonds. "What can you do personally to participate in this Fight for Freedom?" Here is one answer: Invest in Savings Bonds. By putting your money into this critical and costly struggle, you are taking an active part in defeating bondage and tyranny wherever they threaten," she said. The Drive extends through July 1962.

WAVELAND HOME DEMONSTRATION CLUB HOLDS MEETING
The roll call was answered with "What Book I read this month" when the Waveland Home Demonstration Club met last Monday at the home of Mrs. A. J. Butz with Mesdames A. J. Chagnard and F. Vitari as co-hostesses. Plans for the July 28 picnic, which will begin at 4 p. m. in Edward Park, were discussed. All members and their families were invited to attend with each bringing their lunch. Mrs. R. J. McDougall discussed the dangers of children riding tractors and accidents occurring from such practice. She also cited the danger of leaving plastic flowers and bags within the reach of children. The entrance prizes were won by Mrs. Earle Gates and Mrs. C. A. Phelps.

Electricity Is Too Expensive For Most Homes

Only Rich Can Afford Luxury Of Lighting

—And there's good reason why. In fact there are 26 reasons — the 26 Electric Power Associations which have set the pace in charges for electricity.

There may be other reasons, but this is by far the main one. Every Mississippian has benefitted from the formation of Electric Power Associations.

These associations have served as a yardstick in the measurement of the cost of electricity. They offer an element of competition in what was previously a non-competitive electric distribution business.

Although they are non-profit organizations themselves, these associations do not object to commercial power companies making a profit. What would otherwise be termed as profit for the Electric Power Associations goes to repay the interest and principle on the loans which made them possible.

The associations were not formed simply for the purpose of creating competition. They were formed as the only reasonable means of getting electric power into thinly populated areas. For reasons of their own, the commercial power companies had not made service available in these areas at a price the people could afford. Charges of up to $3,000 per mile of line and 25 cents per kwh for electricity had been imposed.

People without electricity organized and incorporated the non-profit associations under Mississippi law for the sole purpose of supplying themselves with electricity. With their combined credit, they borrowed the money to build the lines to supply electricity for themselves. They have profited through the use of electric power.

Wherever you live in Mississippi, the rate you pay for electricity is obviously lower because an example has been set and a measure of competition is offered by Electric Power Associations.

the plate

You are witnessing one of the frustrations in Ted's life. Like his namesake, the Red Sox slugger, Ted likes to tag a good fast ball and send it over the fence. But, today, our batting-practice pitcher just can't seem to find the plate.

Another frustration in Ted's life will occur next Sunday morning. Like every American youngster Ted needs religious training. But Ted's parents, who should be offering him opportunity and encouragement in spiritual growth, can't seem to find the Church.

Our children deserve the full spiritual opportunity which our free heritage has preserved for them. Today it is their turn to develop the power with which God endowed them. And our assignment, like the batting-practice pitcher's, is to offer them our best . . . and not lost control.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH
The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake, (2) For his children's sake, (3) For the sake of his community and nation, (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Public Interest Brings Progress In Medical, Scientific Research

By DR. THOMAS M. RIVERS
Vice President for Medical Affairs,
The National Foundation,
New York, N. Y.

Public interest is rapidly becoming a powerful force for progress in medical science. Never before has the scientist had so many people to thank for the moral and financial support given his work. But the scientist must hold up his end of this splendid partnership by frequently reporting to the people on the direction and significance of his research.

For example, I am frequently called upon to explain the connection between The National Foundation-March of Dimes' original polio research program and our present effort, which has been expanded to include birth defects and arthritis. Some people have even asked, "Why doesn't The National Foundation go out of business?" now that it has produced the Salk killed-virus vaccine and, more recently, the Sabin live-virus vaccine.

Research Interrelated

You see, everybody understands the significance of ultimate scientific achievement. Less likely to be understood is the fact that the development of the vaccines depended upon a host of less spectacular victories in the laboratory, victories whose cumulative impact upon the scientific world extends far beyond the attainment of any single objective. Before the vaccines could become a reality, it was necessary to create intensive research programs to probe deep into the nature of viruses, deep into the nature of the human cells which are the target of the virus attack. The money you have given the March of Dimes has enabled The National Foundation to attain a position of leadership in the field of virology unmatched by any private agency in the history of medical research.

Disease Protection

At the same time, it has permitted The National Foundation to develop new knowledge of human cells—their structure, their characteristics, their reaction to invasion by disease—that may eventually permit the scientist to devise new methods for protecting those cells from attack by many different kinds of disease agents, including those which cause cancer and other conditions that kill and cripple the human body.

Polio vaccine was one magnificent product of the knowledge amassed through such research. But that knowledge is now being used to develop still greater understanding of life and disease.

In birth defects, March of Dimes-supported research today is trying to find out what happens to human cells during the period of pregnancy that results in the birth of defective babies, babies with malformed bodies, with lowered mental capacity, with conditions that doom them to early death or a lifetime of crippling. We know that in many cases a virus is involved. But how? What happens to destroy, distort or retard the normal development of these human cells?

In arthritis, we have a disease about which almost nothing is known. We don't know the causes of rheumatic diseases, nor do we know how to cure them. In many cases, a virus is suspected. But, once again, the crux of the problem is the human cell and the outside forces which attack and destroy it.

With birth defects and arthritis as initial targets, The National Foundation's advisory committees of eminent scientists and physicians have brought into play the knowledge, the experience and the methods that already have proved so effective in a massive research effort against crippling diseases.

Prevention of polio was a beginning, not an end. The vein of precious knowledge has been merely touched. Its potential for new discovery is unlimited.

"VICTORIES IN THE LABORATORY"

Dr. Thomas M. Rivers is generally conceded to be the dean of American virologists. His leadership and stature in this important branch of science have brought to The National Foundation-March of Dimes a virus research program unrivaled by that of any other voluntary organization. Dr. Rivers has been a research consultant of The National Foundation since 1938 and for the past five years has served as the organization's vice president for medical affairs.

averaged 13 percent runoff and 772 tons of soil loss per acre. For conventional seeded the losses were 13% and 2,711 tons, for the undisturbed permanent pasture 22% and 590 tons.

In summer, water runoff from the sod-seeded plots was 17% and soil loss 477 tons per acre. From seedbeds it was 21% and 2,352 tons; from the pasture check 17% and 439.

On a year-round basis, the sod-seeded plot lost less water than either of the other two and very lit-

NEW FORMS FOR DRIVERS' LICENSE WRITTEN TESTS

Commissioner of Public Safety T. B. Birdsong and Chief Driver's License Examiner W. H. Sutherland announced the development of a modernized and streamlined form for drivers license written tests.

The written test is one of four parts of the requirements for getting a drivers license. Applicants must pass tests on highway rules, highway signs, vision, and a road test. Out of state applicants with valid drivers licenses may have the road test waived.

At the present there are four different tests for license applicants. They are rotated so that an applicant will take a different test if he does not pass the first one. There are also two different sign tests.

The new test series will include the present ones but will be rearranged so that both of the tests are printed on the same sheet, front and back. This will result in eight different combinations, no two the same.

According to Chief Examiner Sutherland the idea for the improved version of the tests was picked up at the Region Two A. A. M. V. A's annual Drivers License Workshop. The idea was further developed by the Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol, to fit in with our system of testing and our state laws. It is a new idea that will simplify the testing of applicants. All applicants for drivers licenses will take the new tests. They will come into use in about one month.

RIGHT OF WAY IS IMPORTANT PROCEDURE IN ROAD BUILDING

If you own land, 10 acres or 1,000, it is probable that in due time some of it will be needed for a new highway.

Once considered secondary in highway construction, right of way has assumed major importance in development of the public road system required by present-day Mississippi.

According to Highway Commissioner, John D. Smith, of the Southern District, Mississippi's 8,300 miles of state highways occupy a total of 120,000 acres, making the Highway Department one of the major land owners in the state. Each time a new road is built, more land must be acquired.

"The process of appraising and purchasing this land constitutes one of the most complex and high-technical operations in highway construction," Mr. Smith said.

"Fair Market Value is the yardstick we follow in all right of way consideration," the commissioner explained. "To pay less would be unfair to the property owner; to pay more would be unfair to the taxpayer whose money we are spending."

Three steps, each carried out by one or more men specifically trained for the job, are involved in the normal right of way transaction.

These are abstracting, appraising and then negotiating. Abstracts obtained at the county courthouse show legal ownership of the property. Next, the appraisers make a detailed study of values of everything needed for the new highway. By this time, engineers of the department have decided on the location of the highway and the exact right of way needed. The appraisal covers everything of value—land, buildings, timber, ponds, fences, and the like.

It also calculates any damages which may result from construction.

At this stage that the owner is likely to have his first contact with Highway Department representatives," Mr. Smith said. "Often, he is aided, the property owner can provide assistance to the appraiser."

Finally, with abstracting and appraisal completed, actual negotiations begin. Again the "Fair Market Value" yardstick is applied, and negotiators patiently work with property owner to see that every detail is recorded in the final deed.

According to the Commissioner, ninety percent of all right of way is purchased by mutual agreement. In the remaining small percentage, the terms are decided by eminent domain court.

The time involved in these steps varies sharply. While one owner may agree to sell his land at once, another may insist on a long period of time to prepare for the loss of his land.

Our country needs more roads of all types to help economic growth and national security. For this the government must buy a United States Savings Bond today.

Farmers Have Responsibility

Farmers have the responsibility of protecting Mississippi's food supply in case of nuclear attack. And according to W. L. Heard, state conservationist, U. S. Soil Conservation Service, selected SCS personnel in all 22 counties have been trained and equipped with radiological kits to assist in providing valuable information to the farmers.

Mr. Heard said these SCS monitors would cooperate with USDA County Defense Boards, and are a part of the national network established by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Richard E. Covell, Jackson, state soil scientist, SCS, taught the course which ended May 10 at Mississippi College. It was the last of four conducted by the Service in cooperation with the Mississippi Civil Defense Council.

Colonel Justin Courtenay, Jackson, disaster chairman for the Hinds County Red Cross, Professor Henry A. Carlock, Clinton, head of the Mississippi College physics department, and Robert Rester, Jackson, nuclear physicist with the state board of health, assisted in the school.

In Hancock County Hugh C. Sanford has been trained and equipped for radiological monitoring. Other members of the USDA County Defense Board include John W. Haynes, Chairman, ASCS, Ocie O. Swords, CES-Max H. Stone, FELA.

Farm members are Rev. Charles L. Lee, Rev. John E. Moore and Mr. David Baker, Leetown Community.

In case of enemy attack the SCS monitors would go into immediate action.

This rural monitoring would provide information on levels of radiation, degree of contamination, and remedial measures to be applied.

The effects of fallout on vegetables, on pasture grasses, fruit trees, crops, livestock and poultry, and on the water supplies for farmers and cities are being carefully studied by the Soil Conservation Service.

Here are some questions farmers are asking and SCS men are answering. Most of these questions are equally vital to city-dwellers.

How will fallout affect livestock and what's the best way to protect them?

What water and feed can safely be fed to cows and hogs?

Should dairy cows get special treatment?

What should be done to protect poultry, and are eggs safe to eat? What animal food products are safe to market after fallout?

SIZEABLE INCREASE IN OUT OF STATE LICENSE SURRENDERED

Last year there was a sizeable increase in the number of out of state licenses surrendered to the Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol by drivers applying for Mississippi license. Their information was released by Commissioner of Public Safety T. B. Birdsong and Chief Driver License Examiner W. H. Sutherland.

In 1967 14,189 licenses were turned in, in 1968 there were 14,865, and last year there were 16,498 surrendered.

When out of state drivers apply for a Mississippi license they submit their valid license and take the written test on Mississippi Highway rules, highway signs, and the eye test (the road test is waived if the out of state license is valid). At the end of the month all out of state licenses are collected and sent to the respective state that issued it. Other states reciprocate with Mississippi licenses that are turned in. Returning the license to the issuing state helps them to keep their license files current.

HOME AGENT'S NOTES

Some wash-and-wear cottons can't take a chlorine bleach. It may weaken the fibers and yellow the fabric. That may be the reason if you're having trouble with your wash-and-wear cottons turning yellow.

To be sure you do the right thing by your wash-and-wear clothes, follow the directions on the label. If it says "Do Not Use Chlorine Bleach", don't.

Instead use a sodium perborate bleach that you can buy at your grocery store under any of several brand names.

MAGNOLIA LEAF SPOT

You may find a number of leaf spotting fungi on Magnolia leaves or branches that were weakened through cold damage or old leaves that are about ready to fall. There are two of the fungi that affect young leaves.

Remove old diseased leaves and spray young growth with Bordeaux 4-4-50, thiuram or captan. Spray about every 2 weeks during rainy periods or until the problem clears up.

JULY PLentiful FOODS

Turkey for July 4. It isn't traditional, but could be a lot of good eating cold turkey sandwiches for picnic and picnic turkey for a party or buffet meal.

With the good turkey birds around July 4, they are the best time to buy them. They are plentiful and the price is just what you need for the good eating.

SAFETY OF YOUR SAVINGS INSURED UP TO $10,000
By The
Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, an agency of the Federal Government, Washington, D. C.

MANY PEOPLE seem to think that every savings and loan association is insured by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation. This is not the case.

SAVINGS and loan associations have a great responsibility to keep funds entrusted to them safe and available at all times. The Federal Home Loan Bank System, including insurance of accounts, has done a great job throughout the country for the last 25 years in keeping insured associations running smoothly.

WE THINK it advisable to place your savings only with insured institutions.

WE HAVE been instructed to publish this message of public interest and to urge insured member associations to use it in connection with their own programs to explain the role of the Federal Home Loan Bank System.
